A MESSAGE FROM JEFF BURBANK, FOUNDER AND CEO OF NXSTAGE MEDICAL, INC.

By now, most of you have seen that we have entered into an agreement to join forces with Fresenius Medical Care, pending shareholder and regulatory approvals, along with other typical closing conditions. As you can imagine, I have thought long and hard about this, so I wanted to share how truly amazing I think this combination can be. I believe my thoughts represent the view of the Board of Directors, as well as the senior management team.

I see this transaction as the next step in why we all came to NxStage: to “change the world”! We’ve done an unbelievable job of turning our vision into a successful company, but we can do so much more. The reason it’s the right step is that this combination should improve the opportunities for all our primary stakeholders: people with kidney failure, employees, customers and investors. This transaction not only represents a tremendous opportunity, but also enhanced stability and reduced risk compared to remaining a standalone entity.

In my discussions with the management of Fresenius Medical Care, we realized that we have similar views of how care can be improved I believe the time is right to drive a change in the delivery of renal care by truly committing to the benefits of individualized dialysis care at home. I was gratified to learn Fresenius feels the same. This transaction reflects the value they place on our efforts to individualize dialysis care and the progress that we’ve made in developing technologies to deliver it. Through our discussions, we shared a common view of the opportunity for the future and felt we could do a better job as one entity.

That leads me to why I think this is a good move for our employees, customers and the people with kidney failure that count on us. Together, Fresenius Medical Care and NxStage should be able to help more customers and patients, which in turn creates growth and opportunity for our employees. Fresenius Medical Care would like us to continue doing what we do best, and a lot more of it. We can benefit from their experience and access to markets around the world. They can help grow the adoption of flexible, individualized HHD therapy as well as expand access across the world to our other products. I strongly believe our opportunities will be greater working together. The value of joining these companies is created by working together and expanding our product sales; therefore, this is an exciting strategic opportunity for us all.

It probably goes without saying that this transaction is also really good for investors. You all know me, and know that I feel a huge responsibility for our shareholders. This represents a wonderful return for them. The reason it feels right to me is that I am equally excited about the benefits of this transaction to our patients and all of you.

We are entering the second phase of this process. We have agreed on where we want to go, Fresenius Medical Care acquiring NxStage, and now we need to gain all the approvals to do this. This will take some time — we expect the closing in 2018. Until the transaction closes, we will remain an independent company and it will be business as usual. Consistent with everybody's legal obligations, Fresenius Medical Care will not have a role in our operations before the closing. We need to stay focused on our continued success as we work in the background to conclude the merger. Let's all work to ensure there is no disruption in the way we serve our patients and customers.

I will provide frequent updates as we move through the various steps. I know change can be difficult and stressful, but please keep in mind the great work we do every day and how exciting it is to have this fantastic opportunity at NxStage. There will be meetings across our organization this morning to discuss this announcement. We are also holding an All Hands meeting tomorrow (Tuesday) to provide an opportunity to try to answer your questions. The information for the All Hands meeting will be sent to everyone later this morning.

I want to thank each and every one of you for helping to create a great company and a great future.

Dear [Scientific Advisory Board Member],

I would like to follow up on the announcement from earlier this morning that we've entered into an agreement to be acquired by Fresenius Medical Care.

We think that now is the right time to join forces with Fresenius Medical Care because it is also the right time to drive a change in the delivery of renal care. This transaction reflects the value Fresenius Medical Care places on our efforts to individualize dialysis care and the progress that we've made in developing technologies to deliver it. Since NxStage was founded, we have relentlessly focused on providing innovative products with high levels of customer and technical support for our patients and health care providers. I'm excited about what this means for the future of our products and therapy, and for the patients and healthcare teams who will receive greater access to them.

Fresenius Medical Care is a world leader in dialysis services and products and they share our passion and intense focus on advancing renal care. We believe this proposed transaction is a reflection of all the hard work and dedication of our employees and advisors in advancing our therapy and products, while maintaining high levels of quality and safety.

As the transaction is subject to shareholder approval, regulatory approvals and other customary closing conditions, we expect the closing in 2018. For now, and until the acquisition closes, it will be business as usual. We remain and operate as a separate, independent organization from Fresenius Medical Care.

We do not expect that this announcement will affect your service on our advisory board until the transaction closes. Once the transaction closes, you can expect that there will be some changes as NxStage moves through the integration process with Fresenius Medical Care. The details of those changes are yet to be determined. As a valued member of our advisory board, we will update you on changes that may affect how we work together.

Dear [International Distributor],

I would like to follow up on the announcement from earlier this morning that we've entered into an agreement to be acquired by Fresenius Medical Care.

We think that now is the right time to join forces with Fresenius Medical Care because it is also the right time to drive a change in the delivery of renal care. This transaction reflects the value Fresenius Medical Care places on our efforts to individualize dialysis care and the progress that we've made in developing technologies to deliver it. Together, Fresenius Medical Care and NxStage should be able to help more customers and patients, which has always been our driving mission. Since NxStage was founded, we have relentlessly focused on providing innovative products with high levels of customer and technical support for our patients and health care providers. I'm excited about what this means for the future of our products and therapy, and for the patients and healthcare teams who will receive greater access to them.

Fresenius Medical Care is a world leader in dialysis services and products, and they share our passion and intense focus on advancing renal care. They also share our commitment to quality, safety and the high levels of service and support that we provide.

This announcement is not expected to change how we work together until the transaction closes. You will continue to work with the same team and we remain committed to working with you to grow and achieve our mutual goals. Once the transaction closes, there will be changes as NxStage moves through the integration process with Fresenius Medical Care. The details of those changes are yet to be determined. When possible, we expect to update you on any decisions that may affect how we work together to help minimize disruptions to your business, customers, and patients.

As the transaction is subject to shareholder approval, regulatory approvals and other customary closing conditions, we expect the closing in 2018. So, until the transaction closes, we will remain and operate as a separate, independent organization and will continue to provide you with the same excellent level of service and support, without interruption.

If you should have any questions, or require further information, please contact [main contact]. All public details of the acquisition will also be available on www.nxstage.com.
